

5 signs your AI agent needs a human check

A stop-and-route checklist for agent operators and automation teams.

01 Sources conflict

Two credible sources disagree on a fact that changes the next action.

02 The tool succeeded, but the task did not

A 200 response is not proof that the intended business outcome occurred.

03 Authority is unclear

The agent can act technically, but no accountable person approved the action.

04 The task expanded silently

New systems, sensitive data, or irreversible steps appeared outside the original scope.

05 Recovery became repetition

Retries continue without new evidence, a new hypothesis, or a safe rollback point.
